From the Pastor's Desk

Miracles Happen When Trust is Abundant. The hardest thing to do is change. We all like something new but we don't like if it means I have to change. Because external change, like changing my environment with a new house, or a new relationship, or even a new job promises some degree of excitement. However, real change is another story.

Real change is interior; changing my heart, or my mind or both. This is the change Jesus calls us to as His followers. Expecting meaningful personal growth by changing my external environment only is like rearranging the deck chairs on the Titanic. This is why real change is difficult and often avoided and substituted for the external.

Changing our interior is done with the grace of God. Alone it is nearly impossible, but with honesty towards God, we can receive the needed strength to change and become even better than you or I could imagine. The first thing necessary is say what you mean and mean what you say. If you are a follower of Christ then don't be shy about it. Let it show in your actions of patience, kindness, holding your temper and generosity. This is what it is to "mean what you say."

In the Old Testament, God makes it apparent that lip service will not do, that profession of faith in God must be backed up by acting on the faith professed expectation. Not only does Jesus talk about how central God is, He acts out of His conviction. He pours Himself out for the people teaching them, because they are like sheep without a shepherd.

© Annika Nelson

Jesus expects this of the disciples too. He wants them to open themselves up to God's providing. The disciples on the other hand, want the people to go away after Jesus is finished. But Jesus insists that they now follow His lead and surrender and give over what little they have to now to feed the people. He expects them to act on the faith they have in Him and God's word. They are to be examples to the crowd, in the pattern He has set, giving even the little they have so all can be fed.

Jesus wanted them to change their hearts, to embrace a conversion, to trust God as Jesus did. In their conversion, others were encouraged and challenged to act on Jesus' words that they just heard. Everyone needed to sit down and practice what they so eagerly took-in in Jesus' preaching. There was to be no listening to God's Word and then running off as if trying to get out of the church parking lot before the final blessing.

God's Word expects a response from you and me. And so the people that day needed to respond to Jesus beginning with the disciples. And what a response it was; for out of Jesus' power to change hearts, food appeared, enough for everyone and more. If the disciples had persisted in their hesitancy to offer what little they had everyone would have gone hungry.

Jesus trusted in God and was given strength to give even when He wanted to be alone, to give even when He saw the cross. We who so eagerly want to hear His word must act upon it trusting that we can give of our talents, time and treasures. Our trust will not be unfounded. Like the disciples through the power of Jesus, you and I together will produce enough for all and surprise ourselves with left-overs too.

THE WORD

(Readings for August 1, 2021, The Eighteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time)

I. Exodus 16:2-4, 12-15

In the desert the Israelites grumbled against Moses because they were hungry. The Lord sent down quail and bread for them to eat. By this, Israel came to know the Lord.

II. Ephesians 4:17, 20-24

Paul told the Ephesians they could not continue to live as pagans did. As followers of Christ they were to lay aside their old selves and “put on the new self, created in God’s way in righteousness and holiness of truth.”

III. John 6:24-35

The crowd followed Jesus to Capernaum because He had given them bread to eat. Jesus told them instead to seek the food of eternal life. He said that He is “the bread of life.”
